

Cargill Power Canola™

Unlock your access to new markets for Canadian canola

Canola is a staple crop in your operation and a key contributor to your bottom line. That's why gaining access to multiple, stable markets for your canola is so important.

With Cargill Power Canola Canadian canola growers are poised to benefit from a new and rapidly expanding domestic market for clean fuel feedstocks that recognizes your responsible production and land stewardship. There is a global movement toward increased use of renewable fuels, and Cargill has invested to help you take advantage of the trend.

The Cargill Power Canola program makes it easy to unlock access both to this new market and the European biofuel (2BS) market with one simple, secure online enrollment process.

Why not be rewarded for what you're already doing?

Your canola must be grown on land that is not:

Designated a protected area

Home to species at risk

Forested or wooded

Native or biodiverse grassland

A watershed or riparian zone
