

Cargill SourcePoint Commodities™

Unlock your access to new markets

Looking for new, stable markets for your crop? And want to be recognized for the good agronomic practices you're already using?

With Cargill SourcePoint Commodities, Canadian farmers who grow corn can access the new and rapidly expanding market for clean fuel feedstocks that recognizes your responsible production and land stewardship. There is a global movement toward increased use of renewable fuels, and Cargill has invested to help you take advantage of the trend.

The Cargill SourcePoint Commodities program makes it easy to unlock access to this new market with a simple, secure online enrollment process.

Why not be recognized for what you're already doing?

See if you qualify

Your crop must be grown on land that is not:

Designated a protected area

Home to species at risk

Forested or wooded

Native or biodiverse grassland

A watershed or riparian zone

To take advantage of this market, simply login to your CargillAg.ca account to take the enrollment tool for a test drive.

